TAKES FLING AT MARSHALL

Gov. Johnson in Indiana Tour Gently Sarcastic Regarding "Bossism."

DOWN STATE WARM IN ITS GREETING

Queer Rig Gives Fantastic Touch to the Program at Evansville.

Evansville, Ind., Sept. 19.—Cordial receptions in southwestern and southern Indiana cities, put Governor Johnson, progressive vice presidential nominee, in good spirits today and in all of his addresses he indulged in gentle sarcasm which was appreciated and applauded. He told of the fight in California against bi-partisan control and designated the Southern Pacific railroad as the former chief agent of "invisible government" in that state. With feigned soberness he complimented the people of Indiana on their freedom from bossism, and incidentally took a fling at Gov. Marshall.

"Bossism is not an issue with you men of Indiana," he said. "You would not tolerate a condition which permits republican bosses working hand in glove with democratic bosses to control governmental affairs. If such a condition exist in this state you would use your direct primary to place men free from boss rule in office. If these

PELTING NEIGHBOR WITH RIPE TOMATOES NO CRIME.

Connersville, Ind., Sept. 19.—Pelting a neighbor with ripe tomatoes is no offense in the eyes of the law, was the opinion rendered by Justice Wm. Frank. Mrs. Sylvia Savage and Mrs. Nellie Weilman, of Edgewood, were charged with assault and battery on Mrs. Rudy Crouch. The evidence showed the three women had trouble while the two defendants were in their tomato patch, and the prosecuting witness leaned over the fence and called them "names." Witnesses said the ripe tomatoes were thrown in Mrs. Crouch's direction and struck her several times. Attorneys for the defense said the women on trial had not intended to hit Mrs. Crouch with the tomatoes, but only to frighten her. Justice Frank decided that Mrs. Crouch had been hit, as she testified, but that the defendants, being women, did not intend to hit at all. They were acquitted.

STRIKE ARMY ENTRENCHED

Behind Breastworks, Miners Hold Rich Region at Bingham, Utah.

CLASH OF BATTLE IS NOW IMMINENT

Deputy Sheriff Prepare for Flank Attack on the Rifle Pits.

Bingham, Utah, Sept. 19.—An army of miners, fortified and determined held undisputed possession of the copper, lead and silver mines of Bingham, when the second day of the miners' strike for a further 25 per cent increase in pay and recognition of their union, dawned.

While the army, thousands strong, and speaking many languages, dug breastworks, strengthened its pickets and worked out a rough form of military discipline, there was activity in the offices of the mining companies and the headquarters of the county and state officials. Developments seemed to depend almost entirely upon the success of Gov. Spry, who has been asked to urge the strikers to surrender the mines, give up their arms and wait in patience the success or failure of the mine managers' efforts to figure out ways by which their demands can be granted.

Charles H. Moyer, president of the Western Federation of Miners was said to have an appointment with Gov. Spry. His influence with the miners has been questioned since his failure to persuade them to postpone the strike.

There was much promiscuous firing from the pits opposite the Utah copper mine this morning. About 1,000 men were stationed there.

George W. Dwyer, superintendent of the Utah copper mine and some of the bookkeepers went to the mine but were not molested. None of the property of the company was damaged and the Utah-Apex company is working as usual under an agreement with the union.

Deputy sheriffs are being sent in as fast as they can be recruited. It was thought that the sheriff's force would number 250 men by noon and it was planned to make a flank attack on the rifle pits as soon as a sufficient force could be mustered to drive the strikers down the mountain into a canyon.

FIREBRAND IS USED.

Incendiaries Operate in West Virginia Strike District.

Charleston, W. Va., Sept. 19.—Making their way through a line of sentries incendiaries early today poured oil on the tipple of the Carbon Coal company at the head of Carbon creek in Kanawha county and fired the building. The alarm was given, but before the soldiers could extinguish the flames the tipple had been destroyed with a loss of $10,000. Attempts have been made to operate the mine in defiance of striking miners who are in the heart of the martial law district.

Major James I. Pratt, commanding the militia, and Major Thomas Davis, provost marshal, arrived at the scene of the fire later in the day with bloodhounds. The soldiers in that section were divided in small parties and with the dogs are hunting the incendiaries in the mountains.

Pretty Soon.

Never mind, it won't be long before we'll all be operating our own private garbage crematories.

GREATEST HE HAS EVER TALKED TO

Gov. Wilson's Estimate of Gatherings on His Western Trip.

BRIEF CHICAGO STAY

Chicago, Sept. 19.—"Plainly the times are changing," declared Woodrow Wilson on his arrival here today in reference to his receptions on his tour which he said were "the greatest gatherings he had ever talked to since he entered public life." The governor spoke particularly about his visits to Minneapolis and St. Paul. Fred B. Lynch, national committeeman of Minnesota, conferred with the governor on the way here. The democratic candidate went immediately to the western headquarters where he talked to a gathering of business men and politicians until his departure for Detroit at 10:30 a. m.

Besides the political side to his visit to Detroit the governor looked forward to an introduction to Tyrus Cobb, the Detroit baseball player. The governor lived and practiced law in the same section in Georgia in which Cobb lived. Ralph Smith, the representative of the national committee, who comes from Atlanta, Ga., and who is traveling with the governor, planned the Georgia reunion.

Although Gov. Woodrow Wilson's itinerary allowed him only an hour and a half in Chicago today the program arranged for the democratic presidential candidate gave assurance that he would be able to greet many hundreds of persons.

Mr. Wilson was due to reach the city from St. Paul at 8:52 o'clock. A reception committee headed by Elmore W. Hurst arranged to escort the governor to democratic headquarters. It was the plan to reach there in time for him to hold a short conference with leaders before 9 o'clock, the hour set for a public reception. As many as can do so were given the opportunity of shaking hands with Governor Wilson in fifteen minutes. He was scheduled to leave for Detroit at 10:30 a. m.

MARINES HALTED BY REBELS' GUNS

Train Bearing Americans is Fired on by Nicaraguan Insurgents.

STRONGHOLD STORMED

Managua, Nicaragua, Sunday, Sept. 15.—(Via San Juan del Sur, Sept. 19, delayed in transmission.)—For the last three days the Nicaraguan government forces have been attacking Masaya, the southern headquarters of the revolutionists, about twenty miles from the capital. The troops have succeeded in reaching the outskirts of the city, forcing the rebels to retire to the fortress on Barranca hill.

Major Smedley D. Butler, commanding a battalion of American marines, left Managua this morning to open the national railroad to Granada on Lake Nicaragua, and to do this it was necessary to pass through Masaya. As the train approached Masaya it was fired upon by the insurgents and the engine came to a standstill. The firing continuing, the train was backed out of range of the rebel guns.

Major Butler sent a note to the insurgent commander stating that his object was to open the railroad and that he desired to do it peaceably. The note added that if no answer to the message was received by 4 o'clock in the afternoon the marines would advance. General Zeledon, the insurgent commander, agreed to meet Major Butler and talk over the situation tomorrow morning. The train bearing the American marines is also carrying a quantity of Red Cross supplies for the relief of the people of Granada, who have been reduced to the last stages of starvation.

Advices received from Washington from Nicaragua on Monday last said that American bluejackets and marines had been called upon by the American minister at Managua, Mr. Weitel, to rescue from famine the pupils of a college for girls at Granada who had been isolated for forty days. The college is a French institution.

VETERANS IN REUNION HERE

Survivors of 44th Regiment and 11th Battery Meet in Fort Wayne.

GREET COMRADES OF OLDEN DAYS

Interesting Programs Carried Out in Business and Social Sessions.

Gathered from Allen and adjoining counties, as well as from other states, veterans of the Forty-fourth regiment of Indiana volunteers assembled in Fort Wayne today for their thirty-third reunion.

It was a happy meeting of old comrades, but there was a touch of sadness, too, in the fact that a number of familiar names were absent from the roll of those present, having been claimed by death during the year which has intervened since the last annual gathering.

Something like one hundred of the veterans were in attendance when the meeting was called to order in the assembly room of the court house at 10 o'clock this morning. Capt. W. A. Kelsey, of this city, presided, and Capt. F. W. Willis, of Waterloo, who has been secretary of the organization for many years, was in his accustomed place.

Letters From Absent Comrades.

Badges were distributed following the registration, but the early business session lasted but a short time. Many interesting letters of greeting from comrades who could not be present were read by Secretary Willis.

The committee appointed to nominate the new officers is as follows: Company A, Lew Griffith; company B, Jacob Schaff; company C, Alex Ormiston; company D, L. C. Palmer; company E, W. C. Bittner; company F, Capt. O. C. Kinmott; company G, Dan S. Johnson; company H, David Roe; company J, Capt. O. D. Scovel; company K, Nick Ensley.

The resolutions and memorial committees were also appointed, but will make no report at this meeting.

New Officers Chosen.

The committee nominated the following officers: Capt. W. A. Kelsey, Fort Wayne, president; Jasper Edsall, Fort Wayne, vice-president; F. W. Willis, Waterloo, secretary and treasurer; Miss Josephine Willis was appointed the assistant to Mr. Willis. It was also decided to hold the next meeting in Fort Wayne.

A "straw vote" was taken at the meeting and 51 members voted. The vote resulted thus: Taft, 14; Wilson, 1; Roosevelt, 30; Chafin, 5; Debs, 1.

The afternoon session opened with an address of welcome by Mayor Grice. Mr. Grice's talk was short but to the point. He spoke for the people of the city in general and said that the Forty-fourth regiment of Indiana volunteers was always welcome in Fort Wayne.

Charles S. Bash delivered a short address at 2 o'clock. Mr. Bash said that he remembered the day when the Forty-

COMES INTO COURT TO PROVE HE ISN'T DEAD.

Sandusky, Ohio, Sept. 19.—While suit was being heard in the courts here today to prove that he was dead, Charles Bretz, who mysteriously disappeared from Middle Bass Island about 17 years ago, reappeared and convinced his two sons of his identity.

Bretz was divorced from his wife before he disappeared. The two sons brought suit to recover certain valuable property and it was during the hearing of the case that it was alleged that Bretz was dead.

Many Visiting Members of Fraternity Present at the Ceremony.

Hundreds of members of Knights of Pythias lodges in all parts of northern Indiana, and a number of the grand lodge officials are in the city today to participate in the dedication of the new home of the two Fort Wayne lodges. Special cars from Huntington, Bluffton and Decatur carried large delegations, and all steam and electric roads leading to the city brought great crowds, all desiring to assist in making the occasion a success. Among the prominent visitors are Hon. W. T. Hart, of Huntington, grand chancellor; Harry Wade, of Indianapolis, grand keeper of records and seals, and Hon. Mr. Davis, of Colorado, a member of the national board of control.

Among the early arrivals was the Sampson Guards, of Butler, Ind a third rank team and one of the best organizations of its kind in the state. The guards will give an exhibition drill at the evening session, which is open for members only.

During the early afternoon between four and five hundred people called at the new castle home and were shown through the $30,000 structure by members of a committee appointed especially for the purpose.

The afternoon program opened at 2 o'clock with M. W. Kemp presiding. The

TAFT LIKES THE BUDGET SYSTEM

Will Submit Estimates to Public Whether Solons Approve or Not.

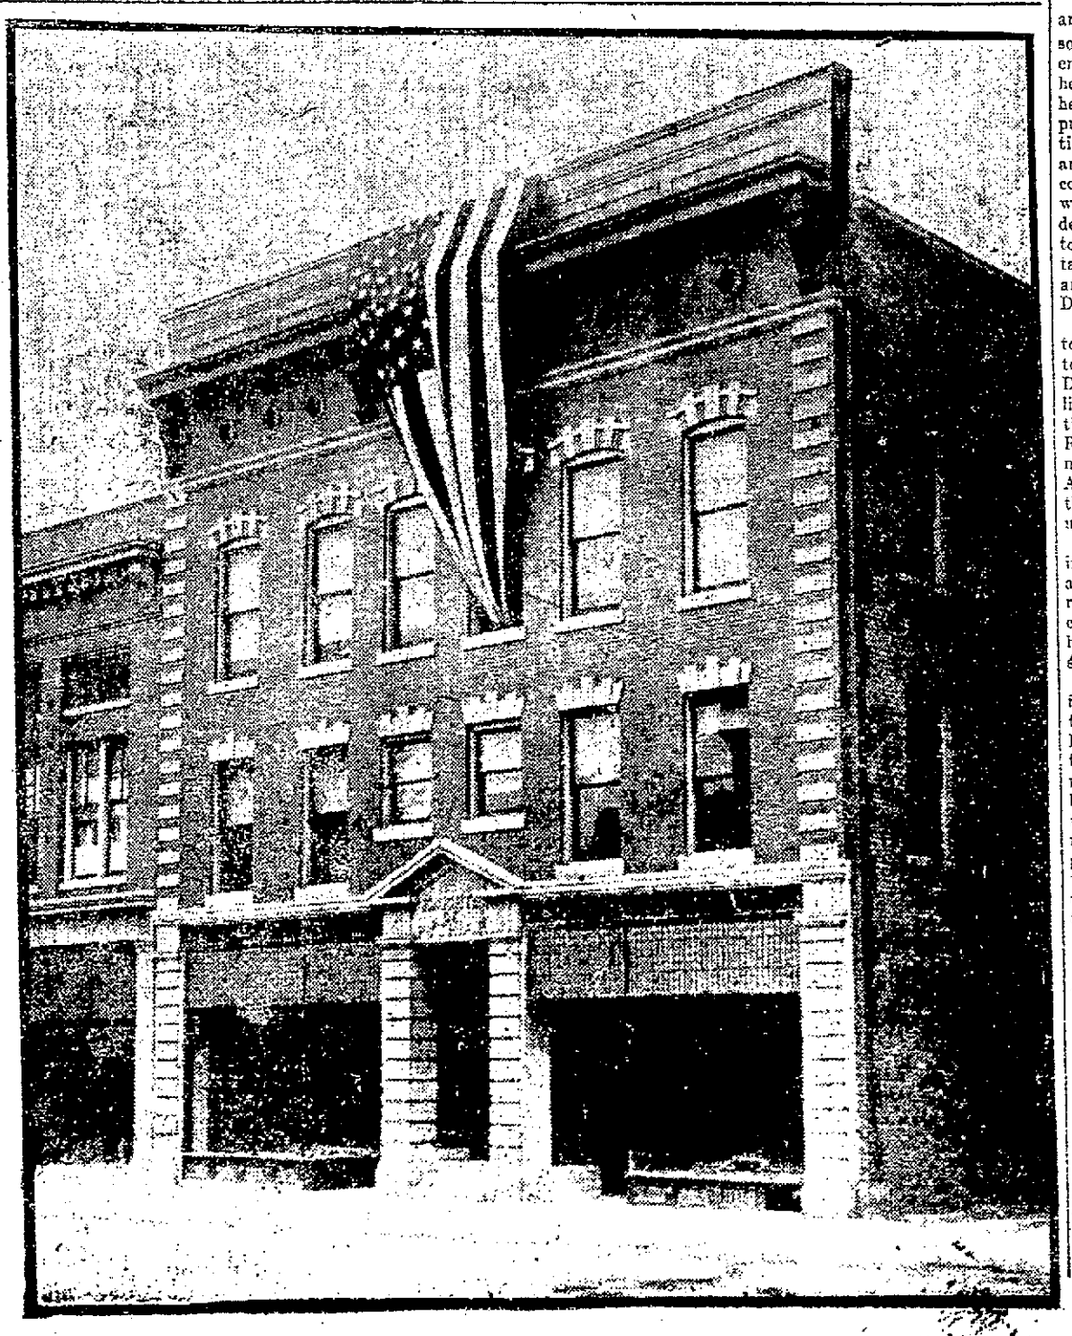
FIGURES OUT A WAY

Beverly, Mass., Sept. 19.—President Taft intends to give the people of the United States an opportunity to become familiar with a "budget system" of estimating revenues and expenditures whether congress approves or not. In a bill passed by congress and signed by the president in the closing hours of the last session it was decided that estimates should be submitted to congress as heretofore. The paragraph escaped the eyes of the president at the time, but since the session closed he has decided that he will try to show the country the advantages of a budget system over the present methods of estimating the income and expenditures of the government.

The president, after consulting with Secretary of the Treasury MacVeagh, has reached the conclusion that there is nothing to prevent Mr. MacVeagh sending along the estimates in budget form just as a comparison and not for use in framing bills. In this way he hopes to get the attention of the country focussed upon a matter which he believes is most important. The president, it is stated, probably will make a statement soon regarding the budget system.

Postmaster Frederick Greines, of Buffalo, who missed a luncheon engagement at Parramatta yesterday because his train was late, was a guest at breakfast today with the president. Mr. Taft's only other engagement for today was with H. F. MacGregor, republican national committeeman from Texas.

HANDSOME LODGE HOME DEDICATED BY FORT WAYNE PYTHIANS.



Nice Little Birdie-Birdie.

"I WENT OUT to my lot in Forest Park the other day," said A. R. Hirons, "to remove the tall grass and other vegetation which the health board says is injurious to the health as well as the sight. I was busily engaged in moving away the luxuriant growth when I heard something in the grass. I stopped work and hunted around until I discovered that the sound was the 'peep-peep' of a little bird too young to fly. It was tangled in the undergrowth and so I lifted it carefully to place it in an open space where it could give a little demonstration in amateur aeroplaning, but before I put it down I stroked its downy little body and spoke some endearing little words to it to let it know that I thought it was a 'nice little birdie-birdie.' But before I got the words out of my mouth something happened that surprised me more than anything that has happened to me in years. The first thing I knew there was a harsh screech about my ears as the mother bird or the daddy bird attacked my head. Then my hat was torn off and that spiteful parent leaped onto my defenseless head and clawed the hair for dear life. It was a bluejay. In the meantime, I tried to hold onto the little bird for fear it would get hurt if I dropped it, but as the attack was prolonged and getting worse, I tossed the little one into the grass again and told the old bird to take her measley offspring and leave me alone. I guess she understood what I said, because that's just what she did."

"Onto my defenseless head."

ONE IN EACH 12 MEN IS ACCUSED

Atlantic City Grand Jury is to Begin a Big Clean-Up.

IT HAS 1,000 CASES

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 19.—The Atlantic City grand jury will consider 1,000 cases of crimes or misdemeanors at the October term of court. These figures were given out today by the prosecutor's office, where the work of preparing papers for presentation to the grand jury is in hand.

Six hundred new cases will be considered. These, taken with 200 cases referred to the October term and the 200 in the hands of the special counsel for the attorney general's office in connection with gambling and election offenses, which also will be tried by the October jurymen, makes up the total of 1,000.

One to Every Twelve Voters.

About 20 per cent of the cases involve women. The voting population was about 10,000 at the last election. Figured on this basis, there are about eight to every 100 voters charged with crimes or misdemeanors, a ratio of about one to every twelve.

The greater portion of the cases are of a petty nature, assault and battery and petty larceny making up the bulk.

This condition, taken in conjunction with the improbability of disposing of the cases at one term, emphasizes the contention of various attorneys that Atlantic City should have a committing judge who could handle these cases direct, as is done in Philadelphia. The expense of an investigation by the grand jury, trial by jury, with all the time of grand jurymen, the court, the assistant prosecutor, and the petit jurymen figured, is out of all proportion to the magnitude of the crimes.

Amendment Only Remedy.

Assistant Prosecutor Schwinghammer explained that the showing does not prove that Atlantic City is wicked so much as it shows that the magistrates are grasping. Under the law they are paid only when the defendant is held to court, in which case a fee is allowed by the county. As the magistrates find their authority in the state constitution, nothing except a constitutional amendment can remedy the situation.

EARNEST WORKER WON SUCCESS

Noted Brazil Sunday School Man Delivered Splendid Address.

CONVENTION CLOSED

The address delivered last evening at the Trinity M. E. church by Mr. W. E. Carpenter, of Brazil, Ind., on the theme, "Evangelism in the Sunday School," closed the missionary evangelistic convention of the Fort Wayne M. E. district which had been in session here since Monday evening, and which was largely attended by the delegates from the different counties of the district.

The address of Mr. Carpenter was a most interesting and instructive one. He is a noted Sunday school worker, the superintendent of the M. E. Sunday school at Brazil, which is the largest in Methodism, the enrollment being 6,000 scholars, and this too in a city of only 10,000 population. Mr. Carpenter is a prominent business man at Brazil and was formerly an active worker in the republican party. He is now a prohibitionist and urges voters to cast their ballots for that party and vote for Chafin for president at the coming election. In speaking along this line he said:

"After I had entered the Sunday school work and became awakened to my duty in its proper sense I gave up my party and went to my teachers to ask them to cease dancing, playing cards and indulging in other harmful amusements and joined hands with them in a work that has born fruit.

"The result was that the old schoolhouse in which Sunday school was held in those days was soon inadequate to accomodate those who desired to attend. I went to the board of trustees and told them we must have more room. They built a new church. It was but a short time until it was necessary to build an addition to the new building.

"The new church was located close to three saloons but it was only a short time until all of them were closed. They were closed because every family in the neighborhood but a very few, became members of the church and Sunday school.

"In order to make the Brazil Sunday school a success," said Mr. Carpenter, "I sacrificed my party and personal ambitions and went into the work to make it win. I believe that the province of a Sunday school is to save boys and girls, and not for the entertainment of the people."

HE COMES BACK AT GOV. WILSON

Roosevelt Says Democratic Nominee Did Not Stick to Facts.

PROGRAM IS HIS OWN

Trinidad, Col., Sept. 19.—Denials of statements attributed to Gov. Woodrow Wilson in regard to the progressive party's attitude toward trusts was made by Col. Roosevelt in a speech here today. He said Gov. Wilson had made statements which were not in accordance with the facts. Gov. Wilson, he said, was quoted as saying in a speech at Sioux Falls, N. D., that the progressive plan would work for the interests of the large corporations and would give them control of the market for labor. This is Col. Roosevelt's reply:

"Mr. Wilson should be above misquoting facts in order to bolster up his arguments. Mr. Wilson has an entire right to defend his own platform if he feels bold enough to do so and an entire right to assail the progressive platform, but he should confine himself to telling the facts as they are. In his speech yesterday he stated that the method now proposed by the progressives to regulate the trusts was suggested by Messrs. Gary and Perkins before the committee of the house of representatives named to look into the steel trust. And he stated it was done to save the United States Steel Corporation from the necessity of doing its business better than its competitors.

Did It Himself.

"Neither of these statements is in accordance with facts. Not once only, but again and again in messages to congress and in speech after speech while I was president I advocated the method proposed by the progressives for handling the trust question, which is practically the principle applied in the interstate commerce commission.

"I wish to call attention at this time to the fact that as far as I know the overwhelming majority of men who control the steel corporation and the harvester trust are supporting either Mr. Taft or Mr. Wilson. They are certainly opposing me. Indeed, as far as I know the only man connected with either organization who is supporting me is Mr. Perkins himself. Mr. Wilson has not offered any action differing in any essential point from the action taken by the administration against the Standard Oil trust. The only result of that action by the present administration against the Standard Oil trust was to legalize that monopoly.

"Such being the case, I do not wonder that every crooked monopoly which wished to be legalized confines its opposition to the progressive party and to me, and is seemingly entirely willing to have either Mr. Taft or Mr. Wilson come into power.

"Mr. Wilson further said that under the progressive platform, the corporations would control the market for labor and stated that the only chance for labor is in competition. He says that legislation we propose would put the workingman in the power of the big industrial concerns.

"There is a very simple way of testing the worth of this statement. Has the interstate commerce commission law put the workingmen in the power of the railroads? Let Mr. Wilson answer this question. If it has then it is his business to advocate the repeal of the interstate commerce law. If it has not, and no man with an atom of sense imagines it has, then Mr. Wilson should in frank and manly fashion at once admit that he has made a rather absurd mistake and that there is not the least particle of ground for the fear expressed.

"Mr. Wilson is a believer in the outworn doctrine of the benefits of unlimited and reckless competition. As a matter of fact, every wise leader of labor and friend of labor knows that such unlimited and reckless competition spells ruin for the majority of wage workers. That is why in the progressive platform we advocate the really practical measures for giving to the average wage worker a living wage.

"I call your attention to the fact that ours is a conservative policy and Wilson does not put forth a single constructive proposal. His policy is not even destructive. It is only make believe destruction. His policy is merely to do nothing. Our policy is to effectively control and regulate the big trusts."

Col. Roosevelt spoke at La Junta before reaching Trinidad. Other Colorado cities in which he is scheduled to speak today are Rockyford, Pueblo, Colorado Springs and Denver.

ENOCH CLARK IS CALLED BY DEATH

Allen County Pioneer Dies Suddenly Atfer Attack of Apoplexy.

WAS A WAR VETERAN

Enoch Clark, of 2123 Phenie street, one of the oldest and best known Allen county veterans of the civil war, and who had been a resident of this county for more than seventy-eight years, died suddenly at 8 o'clock this morning in Aboite township, where he had been spending a few days at his old farm home. Death was due to apoplexy caused by over-exertion. Mr. Clark had been walking in a lane near the house and suddenly fell to the ground, dying before he could summon assistance. He was eighty-one years, six months and sixteen days of age.

Mr. Clark was born March 3, 1831, at East Shore, Md. He came to Allen county with his parents at the age of three years, and had resided here continuously since that time. He lived in Aboite township until the death of his wife, which occurred in 1901. Since that time he had made his home with his son, Captain Harry Clark, of Battery B.

When coming to the city, the deceased retained several rooms for himself at the old country home, and made frequent visits to the place. He had been there since Tuesday, and was planning to return to the city this morning to attend the reunion of the 44th regiment, of the Indiana volunteers, in session today at the court house. He had been in ill health during the spring and had not regained his health.

Mr. Clark was a member of Lawton Wayne post, G. A. R. He served during the war of the rebellion with Co. G, of the 52nd Indiana infantry, and was made corporal of that organization, of which W. A. Kelsey, of this city, is captain.

Surviving he leaves three children. They are Mrs. Ida Buell, of Aboite township; Mrs. Anna Coblentz and Captain Harry Clark, of this city. There are also eleven grandchildren.

Mr. Clark was one of the early pioneers of Allen county. He came here when this territory was covered by dense forests and when Indians were thicker than white people. He always had many interesting tales to tell of the early days. One story especially pleased him to relate. It concerned his father, Richard Clark, who with the father of Asa Turner purchased a barrel of salt. The salt was brought to Fort Wayne in a flat boat on the Maumee river, and cost $16.00. It was sold in ten and twenty pound lots to the neighbors, and Mr. Clark declared that every once in a while the sale of salt in the early days was brought to his mind, as it took several years for some of those who purchased it to pay for their shares.

SALZBRENNER.

Arnold Salzbrenner, three year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Salzbrenner, of 3223 Victoria avenue, died Wednesday at the Lutheran hospital. Death was due to complications. Surviving besides the parents is a brother and sister.

Mr. Durbin comes to the Twelfth district for the purpose of holding a number of organization meetings, and while at Kendallville tomorrow afternoon, intends delivering a brief address. He will begin speaking promptly at 1 o'clock.

DR. WILEY SAYS HE'S SURPRISED

Pure Food Apostle Amazed to Hear Brother is Bull Moose.

AND CANDIDATE, TOO

Washington, Sept. 19.—Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, who has been in retirement for some time on his farm, while he looked after the crops and marketed twenty-two steers, for which he received over $2,000, learned for the first time yesterday on reaching Washington that his brother, U. Z. Wiley, of Indianapolis, has turned to be a "bull moose," and has been nominated for congress in the Indianapolis district.

"You don't mean it," he said, greatly astonished. He added that he never was more surprised in his life.

"Why, I thought the judge was an old standpatter," he said. "I never saw any signs of insurgency about him. I do hope he won't accept the nomination."

As Dr. Wiley is going out to Indiana to denounce Col. Roosevelt in a series of red-hot speeches week after next it was suggested there might be a good chance to work up a joint debate between him and his brother, the judge.

"Well, it wouldn't be the first time we have taken opposite sides of a question," said the doctor. "When we were boys we settled our disagreements with our fists. But the funny part of it is that one thing we have always agreed on heretofore was politics. We were both straight republicans. Now I am whooping it up for Wilson and Marshall and you tell me the judge is a bull moose. I can hardly believe it."

SEEK ROBBERS WHO ESCAPED.

Chicago Police Scour City for Men Who Beat Up Officer.

Chicago, Sept. 19.—Detectives searched Chicago today for two bank robbers for whose arrest a reward of $25,000 is offered, and who escaped with $150,000 in loot after beating Police Lieutenant Burns into unconsciousness when he attempted to arrest them single handed. The hunted men are wanted for a share of the daring robbery of the bank of Montreal, at Westminster, B. C. Five men dynamited the safe and got away with $320,000. Three have been arrested. The two men came here with the largest share of the loot, the police say. Lieut. Burns trapped them in a South Wabash avenue saloon. Entering the place in a disguise, Burns showed his police badge and commanded the robbers to throw up their hands. Instead, they threw a chair at him, beat him into unconsciousness and fled.

Charges of neglect of duty were filed against Burns and his commanding officer, Captain John J. Mahoney, by Chief McWeeney.

Chicago, Sept. 19.—Owing to the illness of Edgar A. Bancroft, counsel for the defendants, the taking of testimony in the government's anti-trust suit against the International Harvester company, was postponed today. Today's proceedings were to have been devoted to the presentation as evidence of the minutes of the harvester company's director meetings and of the meetings of the voting trustees, Geo. W. Perkins, Cyrus H. McCormick and Charles Deering.

"Did you receive all the minutes that had been subpoenaed?" Edwin P. Grosvenor, special assistant attorney general, was asked.

"I will answer that question categorically," replied Mr. Grosvenor, "We did not."

owds Attending the Exhibition at Kendallville This Week—The Races Yesterday.

Kendallville, Ind., Sept. 19.—The Kendallville fair is proving a great success, large crowds being present both Tuesday and Wednesday, and the crowd in attendance today is also large, notwithstanding the threatened unpleasant weather of the morning hours.

Yesterday was children's day and all students of school age were on the grounds. Some were accompanied by their parents, while others wandered up and down the mid-way unaccompanied and visited the various departments, taking in a few shows and having a good time in general. All of the concession stands and the different attractions did a big business.

The races yesterday were good ones. The 2:30 pace for a purse of $200 was won in three straight heats by Laura Lucile, b. m., owned by Lon Stuckman, of Goshen, and the sixth money by Wayne C., owned by L. D. Burnett, of Fort Wayne. Time 2.21½, 2.21½, 2.23½.

The 2:40 trot for a $200 purse was won in three straight heats by Mary Medium, owner, Charles E. Neidy, Goshen.

The beet harvest was commenced in the fields here this week, and there has been a scurrying for tools with which to get the crop out of the ground, which is about the most difficult part of the work and has to be done with an implement resembling a plow, called a lifter. This done the beets are allowed to dry a short time, then they are topped—that is, the tops are cut off; then they are hauled to the shipping point, weighed and loaded on cars, their destination being the sugar refinery, where they are made into granulated sugar, excepting the part that is made into pulp, which is the larger part, perhaps, which finds a use as cow feed and for the manufacture of fertilizer.

It is considered that his condition is critical and his parents felt that they would prefer to have him at home. He is unconscious most of the time and is suffering from poisoning from atrophine which doctors were using on one of his eyes to absorb a cataract.

Purging the Political Rolls.

It is doubtful if American politics ever furnished a counterpart of the scene enacted in New York Wednesday when the republican national committee, assembled in solemn conclave, took hold in a job of political housecleaning and carefully dropped overboard such of its members who had either openly espoused the cause of Colonel Roosevelt, or were suspected of such warm sympathy with the progressive movement that it amounted to practical disloyalty to President Taft's campaign effort and high treason to the republican organization, which, having made its bed, must necessarily lie in it.

There were resignations in hand from Minnesota, Oklahoma and Ohio, while in the cases of the gentlemen from New Jersey, West Virginia, North Carolina and California, their committee places were deftly slipped from beneath them, and they were forever banished from the committee's councils. Particularly distressing is the case of Mr. Avery, of California, who clung to his place up to the last moment and then attempted to resign by telegraph. Short shrift is entirely too extended to adequately describe what happened to Mr. Avery. He was expelled "for disloyalty to the republican party." Perhaps Mr. Avery doesn't care greatly about it, but his political record would have been clearer had he been a trifle less hesitant about his resignation.

There will be general agreement, however, upon the proposition that the national committee did the only thing left for it to do. The membership of the committee was largely if not altogether chosen at the June convention at Chicago. If the purging of the rolls has any significance aside from its uniqueness, it lies in the fact that it furnishes further proof of the undervaluation of the extent of Roosevelt sentiment at Chicago, and shows that lightning has hit in some most unexpected places.

Fort Wayne is extremely glad to extend a welcome to the veterans of the Forty-fourth regiment and the Eleventh Indiana battery, gathered in this city in annual reunion today. These were two of Indiana's "fighting" commands who went forth from Allen and adjoining counties in the old days now more than half a century gone. Time is sadly thinning the ranks of the veterans' organizations, but the added years only serve to bring into closer comradeship those of "the boys" who are yet with us to answer "here" at the roll-call of the old organizations.

Whether it shall be finally determined that the International Harvester company is operating in violation of the Sherman anti-trust act or not, the disclosures being brought out at the hearing in Chicago are proving illuminating as illustrative of some phases of "big business" in its relation to smaller competitors. And for a concern which professes to have never earned a dividend, the harvester concern appears to have been in the enviable position of being able to absorb a rival or two whenever it cared for either exercise or amusement.

However opinion may differ regarding Mr. Taft's rank as a president, his optimism is certainly of the kind that will stand the acid test. The president's friends declare he confidently believes he will be re-elected in November, while the best place any of his opponents are willing to concede Mr. Taft is third place in the November handicap.

RAILROAD PROSPERITY.

(Indianapolis News.)

Viewed conservatively the railroads, in their building operations, do reflect in some degree at least general business conditions. Being common carriers, the fact that they feel the need for more cars would mean that cars are needed because there are things to be transported.

Financial reports are that orders for railroad equipment and contracts under negotiation mark the most notable resumption of such purchases since the end of 1907—the year, by the way, when President Roosevelt "stopped" the panic by his dispensation to the steel trust. According to information gathered by the New York Journal of Commerce, the large purchases of railroad equipment since January 1 will call for a consumption of nearly 4,700,000 tons of steel products, made up approximately of 2,500,000 tons of rails, 1,540,000 tons for car construction, 293,000 tons for motive power construction and 257,000 tons for railroad bridges and terminals. There have also been heavy orders for miscellaneous supplies.

During the first half of the year the railroads ordered about 102,000 cars. In July and August they contracted for 51,817 cars, making a total of 153,817 cars placed this far in 1912. During the corresponding period of 1910 the railroads ordered fewer than 115,000 cars and in 1911 only 51,267. Since the 1st of January 2,930 locomotives have been ordered, as against 2,884 during the first seven months of 1910 and 1,784 during the corresponding period of 1911.

All this does not seem to indicate any backwardness on the part of the transportation business. Most of these new cars will be set apart to move the crops. The railroads under the restraint of the interstate commerce commission can hardly be said to be "predatory wealth," and their activity indicates that there must be some prosperity behind the demand for increased service.

GOOD TIMES FOR WORKINGMEN.

(Clevelan dLeader.)

There is no room for doubt about the state of the labor market in the great industrial centers of the country. Evidence abounds that the demand for workers is strong and in excess of the supply.

A few days ago reports were sent out from Pittsburg which told of the scarcity of labor there and the efforts which large employers were making to improve the conditions of life for wage-workers in their mills and factories, so that they might be more ready to come and more likely to stay. Since then it has been shown that in Cleveland scores of industrial establishments want more labor than they can get. The foreign workers least skilled and having the most uncertain footing in this city, are all busy, and trained artisans are not to be had in the numbers sought.

This encouraging state of things is the more agreeable because it exists when a peculiarly disturbing presidential campaign is on. The political conditions are not at all what business men desire for the best development of trade and productive industry.

It is clear that the general activity in manufactures and the heavy traffic which it plays an important part in causing are the natural fruit of the country's growth. They are not a forced or in any sense artificial form of good times. Unless something now unforeseen shall occur to prevent continued progress, the year is destined to rank among the best the country has ever known in many of the most substantial forms of progress.

If that shall prove the case it will go far toward making an end of the old belief that presidential years mean hard times or business depression, a fallacy which is riddled by the record of the last half century.

WOMEN'S ACTIVITY IN POLITICS.

(New York World.)

Examples of the ardor and enthusiasm with which women are plunging into the political fray may be found in the noon political meetings in Wall street, by women sympathizers with the Roosevelt movement and in the appeals of woman suffrage orators from the vaudeville stage.

Whether suffragist or anti-suffragist, and not only in the states where they have the ballot but throughout the country, they are exhibiting an activity and an effectiveness as party workers which is altogether the notable feature of a campaign with many "progressive" aspects.

Their names figure on primary tickets and party ballots as candidates for all offices up to that of governor. In Idaho, indeed, they are preparing to hold a convention of their own to nominate an entire ticket of women. They represent constituencies as delegates at state and national conventions. They serve as committeemen, organize political clubs, open headquarters and prepare and distribute campaign literature, take the stump and speak with equal facility in halls and from carts.

It is significant that all the parties have welcomed their aid with an equal cordiality and doubtless with motives that reveal an appreciation of women's coming power in politics. That their cooperation is so readily accepted by party leaders implies a confidence in their practical ability as politicians which will give a new force to their appeal for the ballot.

LET THE EXPENDITURE ALSO BE KNOWN.

(New York Herald.)

While the public is so much interested in the question of campaign contributions, why not have a complete "clean up"? Thus far the chief interest has been in the source of the money that political committees receive. But it seems to be equally important to know what becomes of the money after it reaches the hands of the worthy treasurers of the committees, who surely do something with it which touches the public weal quite as much as the identity of the contributors.

What becomes of this money? How much is expended in the subsidizing of magazines and newspapers? How much is spent for the purchase of newspapers in fields where the nominee is not strongly supported by the press? How much of it goes for speakers, how much for use on election day? Into what counties are large sums sent on the eve of election? Vote-buying was never so prominently in the public eye. A few months ago some hundreds of citizens in one county in Ohio were found to have sold their votes. The other day many voters in Virginia pleaded guilty to selling their votes, and others were convicted.

By all means give us all the facts. Let the public know how the money goes, as well as how it comes.

INDIANA WOMEN'S MARSHALL CLUB.

Editor Sentinel: By organizing themselves into women's Marshall clubs, the women of Indiana will show their appreciation of the distinction that has come to their state through the nomination of their governor on a great national ticket.

This is truly a matter of laudable state pride, but such clubs would show more than this.

They would show the high estimate our women hold for those lovely home virtues embodied in the phrase—"a good husband." A man who is a good husband is sure to hold all women in greater veneration and respect than he upon whom domestic obligations set lightly. The purity of the home and all that it includes means everything to a people. It is the foundation stone of a nation's strength and greatness and the women of Indiana will do themselves honor by a public appreciation of such qualities.

Women's Marshall clubs should spring up in every section of the state. Don't wait till the November election to be proud of Mr. Marshall. Be proud of him now.

AFFECTS NORTH INDIANA CITIES

Canada and United States Seek Remedy for Typhoid Scourge.

ALONG GREAT LAKES

Washington, Sept. 19.—The problem of typhoid fever prevention, which is of vital concern to Indiana cities located along Lake Michigan, is about to be taken up for consideration by the international joint commission. Through the co-operative efforts of the United States and the Dominion of Canada, it is hoped that some effective means may be found to reduce the amazing typhoid death rate.

Millions of persons are directly concerned in the measures about to be considered to prevent continued pollution of the northern boundary waters.

The boundary water line between the United States and Canada extends from Cornwall on the St. Lawrence to the Lake of the Woods, a distance of more than 2,000 miles, and on the American side of that boundary there are more than 5,000,000 persons, living in cities with populations of 25,000 and upward, while there are also many growing cities on the Canadian side of the water border which promise to grow into considerable centers of population.

Niagara Germ Infested.

These cities on both sides of the boundary line take their water supply from the Great Lakes and rivers which form the boundary, and they utilize the same boundary waters for the disposal of their sewage.

The seriousness of the situation from the health standpoint may be illustrated by the condition at Niagara Falls. This little city, which takes its name from the falls, has the greatest recorded death rate from typhoid fever in the world, and with its hundreds of thousands of visitors every year typhoid germs are said to be distributed from that city to every state in the Union and every country under the sun. The city of Niagara Falls has a population of 30,000 and is located at what might be termed the outlet of the great international sewer, which carries the sewage of millions of people living on both sides of the lakes—Michigan, Superior, Erie and Huron. It also receives the sewage of the city of Buffalo.

In the year 1907 the city of Niagara Falls had a typhoid death rate of 222.4 per 100,000 population and an average of 130 for the last ten years.

Worst on Record.

This is the heaviest typhoid death toll recorded anywhere in the civilized world, and it by no means tells the whole story, which is written in the suffering of many people in every part of this country and Europe who have carried the germs home with them. To see just what the typhoid death rate of Niagara Falls means it is only necessary to compare it with the annual typhoid death rate per 100,000 population in some of the other cities of the world. For example; London, 5; Edinburgh, 2; Paris, 8; Rotterdam, 5; St. Louis, 15.3; Cleveland, 12.6; Chicago, 15.3; Berlin, 4; Providence, 16.9. These figures are for 1908.

Only some international authority can settle the question as to the disposal of sewage and prevention of typhoid along the boundary waters, and the international joint commission, by order of the two neighboring governments, has been given charge of finding a remedy in this, as in the use of boundary waters for navigation and power developments.

Pure in Natural State.

Chemical analysis has demonstrated that there are no purer or more healthful waters on the continent than those of the Great Lakes in their natural state. They are the natural water supply for the people living along that international boundary and could be advantageously used by many other cities at a distance from the lakes if they were not contaminated by sewage and refuse. Chicago is the only city on the lakes that does not turn its sewage back into the source of its water supply. When that city approached the million mark in population the old method of pouring the sewage back into the same basin from which it took its supply became so dangerous to the health of the people that the drainage canal was projected, by which the sewage was turned down through the Des Plaines and Illinois rivers into the Mississippi, so that the people of Chicago would not have to drink water mixed with their own sewage.

L. White Busbey, secretary of the American branch of the joint commission, has written to the mayors of all of the northern Indiana cities which depend upon Lake Michigan for their water supply for data, which shows the necessity of taking some steps to reduce the typhoid death rate.

It's truly astonishing—almost marvelous, and the joy is its harmlessness.

About twenty ladies from the city were guests this afternoon at Huntertown of Mrs. Frank Greenwell, who entertained them at an informaal game of bridge. Mrs. R. F. Wilson, of Highland Park, Ill., a cousin of the hostess, and Miss Jeanette Atwater, of New York city, who is visiting Mrs. C. M. Corns, were special guests whom the others were invited to meet. A decoration of the season's outdoor colors and flowers, such as goldenrod, purple asters and bittersweet, which adorned all the rooms, was much admired. When supper was served the ladies found the menu expressing the same colors and that contributed to the prettiness of the appointments.

Miss Emma Block, who will leave on Sunday for Pasadena, Cal., to remain for some months, was the honor guest at a dinner party given at the Anthony hotel last evening. The party went to the Majestic theater after the dinner. There were a dozen young women in the party.

The Misses Josephine and Geraldine Fleming will resume their studies at St. Mary's academy, Notre Dame, and Miss Josephine, in company with her grandmother, Mrs. Allan Dougall, left for South Bend yesterday. Invitations have been received by Fort Wayne friends to the wedding of Miss Mary Kiley, of Marion, to James Francis Mooney, of Chicago, which will take place on October 1, at 8 o'clock in the morning at St. Paul's Catholic church, Marion. The wedding breakfast will be served at the Marion Country club. The bride has frequently visited Mrs. Will Zurbuch, of this city.

Miss Adelia Reynolds, of East Williams street, has gone to Chicago to resume her 'cello studies with Franz Wagner. Miss Reynolds is the young girl who so astonished members of the Morning Musical society when she took part in their programs several times by her talent and progress. Geary, of 1701 East Wayne street, and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Benson, of 425 Washington boulevard east, went to Delphos, O., this morning to attend a family reunion and the eighty-fifth birth anniversary of William Benson, the head of the family. McBennett, who had been in Minnesota with her son, Francis, for several weeks, and who for two or three days has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Frank McBennett, of Lafayette street, left today for Washington, D. C., where she will enter her son in school and will look for a home for her mother and sisters, Mrs. Cornelia Hedekin and the Misses Marie and Clara Hedekin, to occupy on their arrival the first of October from Denver. Col. Major Charles Hedekin, U. S. A., has been appointed to the War college for a year and that is the main reason his mother and sisters have selected Washington for their residence for an indefinite time.

HOLD ANNUAL OPENING.

Visitors at Rurode Store Find Beautiful Display of Millinery.

Rich and varied coloring, birds of paradise plumes and many odd feathers in addition to the always beautiful ostrich plume were one of many beautiful features of the annual fall opening of the millinery department at the Rurode store, which opened yesterday and continued through today. After a year's absence Miss Katherine Kesler is again in charge and the selection of imported and New York hats and trimmings show her fine taste. Among the new colors are an amber, a new blue and a new brown, which are difficult to describe but which are extremely smart looking and expressed in the rich velours and plushes which are so stylish this season, make a combination that the good dresser finds irresistible. "Hats fit down on the head so closely that one's hair must be dressed both low and tight," said Miss Kesler. Whereupon she tried on a Louis XVI style in the new blue plush with paradise plumes dropping low on the back of it and demonstrated that she knew what she was describing as "very smart and becoming style." Novelties are beautiful and there are as handsome models in the less expensive hats as in the imported ones. Visitors to the store were also quick to admire the unusually handsome window displays on the Calhoun street side of the building. Not only beautiful hats, but laces, beautiful evening gowns, and the various accompaniments that appeal to the feminine heart are arranged in artistic display.

Billie Burke

ON IDA TARBELL'S RULES OF DRESS.

By Billie Burke.

The First Word—DRESS AS WELL AS YOU CAN.

MISS BILLIE BURKE.

Miss Ida Tarbell, the woman who laid bare the story of the greatest trust in her history of the Standard Oil company and who perhaps has the keenest analytical mind of any woman in America, has this to say of beauty and dress:

"One of the most domineering impulses in men and women is that bidding them to make themselves beautiful. In the normal girl-child it comes out as does her craving for a doll. Scorn it, ridicule it, deny it, it is Nature's will and as such must be obeyed."

She puts the laws of dress into the following three principles:

"The fitness of dress depends upon the occasion.

"The beauty of dress depends upon line and color.

"The ethics of dress depend upon quality and the relation to one's means."

Miss Tarbell has put into these three sentences the whole science of dressing well. A few years ago, a well-known woman's magazine gave great praise to Helen Gould because she came to a reception, at which she was the guest of honor, in a very plain black tailor-made coat and skirt and white shirt waist, yet Miss Gould violated the first and third of those principles—she was not dressed fittingly for the occasion, and the "quality and the relation to one's means" were entirely lacking.

Women who have the money should indulge in pretty clothes—it sets the wheels of commercial activity going round; it lets you and me and every other woman who works find something to do.

Every woman should dress as well as she can afford, as that helps much to show off one's physical good looks. But every girl should understand that the adoption of a meaningless fashion not only is a waste of money but a waste of strength and a lowering of one's taste.

I never shall forget seeing a number of Irish emigrant girls enter a boat at Queenstown for America. Someone had told them of the hats which were being worn in this country and had sold them a lot of the most awful-looking hats possible. The morning they embarked it was raining, and these girls came on board with streams of red and yellow and green running down their faces and over their skirts. Here and there a colleen looked trim and neat with her plaid shawl tied over her head, but the others, in trying to be something they were not, had become pathetic caricatures.

There is more real beauty in a plaid shawl tied over one's head than in a cheap, flowered hat which will spoil at first wearing in sun or rain.

When you buy your fall hat, remember that it probably will have to be worn in some bad weather and let it be of such material that the weather will not affect it much.

JUST ONE LAST WORD: You can gain the reputation of being very well dressed if you apply Miss Tarbell's rules when you buy your clothes.

POLICE GRAFTER LOSES HIS PLACE

Chicago Patrolman Degraded When Caught in Cheap Crookedness.

REBUKE IS SEVERE

Chicago, Sept. 19.—Degradation's lowest depth was experienced by a Chicago policeman yesterday.

Within sight of a score of commanding officers of the police department Fred E. Brandt, a policeman at the West Chicago avenue station, was stripped of his insignia of office and "drummed out" of the department for petty grafting.

Brandt appeared before the civil service commission to answer charges that he had arrested peddlers for shouting their wares and then had released them on the payment of 50 cents each. Brandt admitted his guilt.

Commissioners Elton Lower and John J. Flynn and Herman F. Schuettler, assistant chief of police, looked at the man when he declared that he was guilty of the charges.

"Stand up," said Assistant Chief Schuettler to the accused man.

"Take off your star," continued the police official, "and give me your patrol box key. Men like you are a disgrace to the police force."

Brandt unpinned his star and placed it on the commissioner's desk.

"Officer," said Mr. Lower, "once this commission heard a case against a policeman who was charged with stealing pennies from newsboys, but the case was not proved. I always thought that case was the cheapest thing a policeman ever did, but I am mistaken. What you have done is unparalleled in the police department's history."

The evidence in Brandt's case showed that he had accepted 50 cents each from three different peddlers for releasing them.

SAYS $25,000 ISN'T ENOUGH

Indianapolis Woman Will Contest Vaughan Will at Richmond.

MORE COMING TO HER

Richmond, Ind., Sept. 19.—The announcement here that attorneys for Mrs. Carl Bernhardt, of Indianapolis, will contest the will of her grandfather, the late Edward G. Vaughan, on the ground that the $25,000 left her by the document does not represent her just share in the estate as the only child of Frank C. Vaughan, deceased, is believed to fore-shadow an investigation by some of the heirs that will show that the estate, supposed to be worth about $250,000, really amounts to more than $1,000,000.

Edward G. Vaughan was one of those sturdy pioneers who located in Indiana during the great westward movement in 1849. He accumulated some means through the careful thriftiness and frugality of those pioneers, and as the state grew toward the Indiana of today he became known as a wealthy man. Like many of those of pioneer blood and of careful habits he was extremely secretive concerning his fortune and none knew the real extent of the money he had accumulated.

Buys Government Bonds.

A number of years ago tax ferrets began prying into his affairs and he suddenly shifted the bulk of his fortune, of whatever amount it may have been, to government bonds. Many of these have been traced.

It is the belief of some of the heirs that probably three-fourths of his estate is not mentioned in the will. One of the three children of the sturdy old pioneer, it is said, became his especial favorite. He had many of the traits of his father, and built up a considerable business.

That much of Edward G. Vaughan's fortune is not mentioned in the will which has been filed for probate is said to be the belief of some of the heirs, and it is understood they have begun an investigation in an effort to determine just what property was left by him. The suit to contest the provisions of the will which it is said Mrs. Bernhardt will file in a short time, is the beginning of such a movement that may disclose a fortune three times the amount of that apparently left, it is believed.

AT THE TEMPLE

On this week's bill at the Temple are two of the biggest stars that were ever featured in comic opera and they are Thos. Q. Seabrook in a monologue that is the best ever put on the Temple boards and Chas. Loder, who was the late feature of "The Prince of Pilsen," "The Isle of Bong Bong" and several big successes and is appearing with a company of three presenting "The Night Doctor," a great comedy offering. The rest of the acts on the bill are all great and is one of the best bills ever presented at the Temple.

The management has a great bill arranged for next week headed by a big musical comedy entitled "Who's Little Girl Are You?" with a star cast of players and a big beauty chorus.

HARDEST WORK OF EVANGELISTS

Is to Reach Professional Men, Say Speakers at Conference.

TALK OF THEIR WORK

Chicago, Sept. 19.—The souls most difficult to save are those of professional men, "dope fiends," and women inmates of dives, according to some of the fifty evangelists who gathered at the Moody church last night for a three days' conference on methods.

Professional men are too deeply interested in their work to go to church and too full of intellectual objections when they get there, it was explained. Victims of drugs usually are so untrustworthy and so erratic that little can be done with them. Women of the vice district are usually so sure that there is no hope for them that they are difficult to reach, and when they have been converted the evangelist does not know what to do with them because so few people will give them a chance to earn a decent living.

Tells Story of Girl.

Melvin Trotter, who finds time to devote attention to thirty-nine rescue missions he has started as well as to conduct one at which audiences of 1,600 congregate nightly in Grand Rapids, Mich., said one of his hardest experiences was of this sort.

"A young woman, still refined, and one who had come of a splendid family, was saved. She wanted to turn over a new leaf. She was willing to work at anything. I asked the women at a meeting to take care of her. But one after another refused. I did find a woman who had Christianity enough to take this girl in, but not enough to treat her with consideration.

Made Fun of Her.

"The woman who accepted her made fun of her clothes, of her ignorance of household duties, of everything she did. The result was the girl slipped away, became intoxicated and killed herself. But she sent for me before she died.

"I don't argue much with men who have objections or who want detailed explanations. I point to myself and say: 'Fifteen years ago I was a drunkard! I haven't taken any whisky since: I haven't wanted any. What are you going to do about it?' Sometimes they say it was will power did it and I answer that I haven't any more will power than I had before. I tell them that if they will just come inside we will argue questions of dogma later. But men of the intellectual type are hard to reach."

College Graduates Hard to Reach.

Herbert C. Hart, who travels and works with Arthur S. Magann, said he had found professional men and some Harvard and Yale graduates who were infidels especially hard to reach.

"It is hard to get the attention of the professional man. He is busy with his own work. Going to church isn't a recreation to him, as it is to the business man. The hardest job I ever tackled was a man who had been an active infidel. His grandfather had been an infidel before him, and he distributed infidel literature. When I met him he was 65 and somewhat debased by dissipation. But after five weeks he was saved."

Mr. Magann said he and Mr. Hart had succeeded in reaching a number of Yale graduates working as office men in the Carnegie steel plant at Pittsburg, but that it was difficult to touch them.

MR. POLLOK WAS READY TO FLEE

Rosenthal Case Witness is Gobbled Under Body Attachment.

HE SHELTERED ROSE

New York, Sept. 19.—Harry Pollok, in whose apartment "Bald Jack" Rose remained while the police were searching for him, was arrested today on a body attachment as a witness in the John Doe proceedings in connection with the Rosenthal murder. Information reached the district attorney's office that Pollok was about to sail for Europe and Acting District Attorney Moss asked Justice Goff for a body attachment in order to insure Pollok's presence at the trial of Police Lieutenant Becker, charged with the murder of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler.

"It is true," said Pollok, "that I had booked accommodations on the Amerika and was to have sailed this morning. I notified the district attorney's office that I was going and would be back in three weeks.

"I am the manager of Freddie Welsh, the pugilist. My trip was arranged for the purpose of making a match for him abroad. As far as the Becker case is concerned I am not a very material witness anyhow. My complete story has been told to the district attorney and the grand jury and there is no reason I should want to avoid going on the witness stand."

Pollok was held in $5,000 bail as a material witness. The woman who was with him at the time of his arrest was also held as a material witness in $2,500 bail. It developed today that Pollok had evaded a subpoena by leaving his home by way of a fire escape.

DOCKET OF PLAIN DRUNKS.

City Court Ground Out Grist of Them at Today's Session.

Dave Shields had been in before and he was particularly offensive when he was arrested, so he got $25 and costs. Steven Miller and Fred Sweet each drew $5 and costs.

Herman Hersche went home yesterday and chased his wife out of the house and the neighbors called the police. He was held until Sept. 25. John O'Hearn, John F. Riley, John Fisher and John Wilson were let go.

MUST DEPEND ON A HIGHER COURT

Niswonger Denied New Trial by Judge O'Rourke After Argument.

NEWS OF THE COURTS

Henry W. Niswonger, whose license to practice medicine was revoked by the Indiana Board of Medical Registration and Examination after he had been fined $100 and costs in the circuit court for selling cocaine to John W. Burton without a prescription, was denied a new trial by Judge O'Rourke today and must depend upon a higher court to acquit him.

Arguments were made by T. E. Ellison and Judge John H. Aiken, who insisted they had discovered a plot on the part of the police to convict Niswonger and that the men who testified against him had been paid to do so but Judge O'Rourke said that he had no doubt of Niswonger's guilt; that he had had a fair trial and that the court had been very lenient with him. The judge added that he considered the illegal sale of cocaine and other drugs of the same kind much worse than the illegal sale of intoxicating liquor.

Wants Money for Horse.

William Schumann says in a complaint filed against Jacob and Harry Lowenstein that they sold him a horse recommended to be kind, gentle and safe for himself, his wife and family to drive about town. He alleges this is a misrepresentation and that the horse is worth only about $25. He asks the return of $150. Phil B. Colerick filed the suit.

Vandolah Will is Filed.

The will of the late Thomas Vandolah was filed in the circuit court today and his wife, Elizabeth, gets all of the estate except $1,000 in cash and a piece of land left to Emma Gump.

Criminal Cases Up.

Charles Lonzo, a negro, who has been in jail several months on surety of the peace proceedings filed by his wife, was released on his own recognizance. Charles Wybourn, for wife desertion, and Jerry Farley, for grand larceny, were arraigned this afternoon.

Wouldn't Let Her Ride.

In her complaint against George A. Ross, Sidney Ross complains because he would not let her ride in his automobile which he bought, she says, for pleasure and not exclusively for the purpose of attending to his patients. She says also that he moved out in the country, kept her there in seclusion, that she was frightened and in terror most of the time, that he refused for several days at a time to speak to her. The decree was granted. Hugh G. Keegan filed the complaint.

Charges Abandonment.

Minnie Dirius charges in her complaint against Abe Dirius that he abandoned her more than two years ago and has made no provision for her support. They have three children, two self-supporting and she asks the custody of the other. Colerick and Hogan represent her.

bosses working through the legislature, enacted laws which were distasteful to you, why of course you would use your referendum and veto such legislation. If these same bosses, still acting through the legislature, prevented the enactment of laws which you did desire why of course you would use your initiative and enact your own laws."

Women Are Conspicuous.

Women were conspicuous in the morning meetings. At Sullivan, the second stop, Mrs. Annette V. Leech, county chairman of the party, presided over a rear platform meeting. Two automobiles filled with women were among the party that met the governor at Princeton. About twenty-five women had seats on the platform.

Frederick Landis, candidate for lieutenant governor, told the crowd at Princeton that he was proud of the equal suffrage plank in the progressive platform.

The carriage in which the governor's party rode from the station was painted in all the colors of the rainbow and the side doors of the body were decorated to resemble American flags. Snow white horses in white web harness drew the queer rig and a driver with a white suit and a white hat was on the seat.

The speaking was held at the court house. A large crowd was present.

Fourteen Towns in Schedule.

Another one-day itinerary of fourteen towns confronted Gov. Johnson today when he started south from Terre Haute on his Indiana tour. At the outset he told the progressive committee in charge of the tour that he could not be expected to fill all of the engagements with speeches ranging from five to sixty minutes, as had been arranged, but that he would do his best.

"I'd rather be a live governor than a dead vice president," he declared.

Cities to be visited today were Shelburn, Sullivan, Vincennes, Princeton, Evansville, Oakland City, Petersburg, Washington, Mitchell, Bedford, Bloomington, Gosport, Martinsville and Indianapolis. The two big meetings planned for the day were at Evansville, where an address of an hour was scheduled for noon and a night gathering in Indianapolis. The governor said he probably would deliver a long address at Indianapolis tonight, but the others would be abbreviated. The trip was to be made by special train. The governor probably will continue to travel in his private car until he departs from Cleveland to Boston on next Saturday night.

PYTHIAN HOME IS DEDICATED

Keiser ladies' orchestra furnished the musical program and the invocation was pronounced by Rev. A. J. Folsom, pastor of the Plymouth Congregational church. The address of welcome was delivered by Hon. Mayor Jesse Grice and an appropriate response was made by Grand Chancellor Hart, of Huntington.

The dedicatory address was delivered by Judge Owen N. Heaton, and the Pythian Sisters were represented by Mrs. William A. Black, grand outer guard. The "Uniform Rank" was discussed by Harry Wade, of Indianapolis, and the insurance end of the lodge work was expounded by Hon. Mr. Davis, of Colorado, who spoke in the place of U. B. Hunt, who was unable to be present.

The New Building.

The new castle hall is one of the finest lodge homes in the state. For years the local lodges of K. of P. had used lodge homes with other fraternal institutions of the city. Steadily the membership increased and the need of a new home became more pressing each year. Finally the board of control decided to erect a home, and one that will stand for years as a suitable monument to the lodge in this part of the state.

The new building is located on the north side of Washington boulevard, between Calhoun and Harrison streets, and is one of the choice properties in the business district. The building alone cost $20,000 and the total cost, including the furniture and fixtures will amount to more than $30,000.

Two storerooms occupy the first floor. The second floor contains four offices, together with the club and lodge hall of the fraternity. The lodge room proper, located at the rear of the second floor, is large and has a balcony which will seat nearly one hundred people. The club rooms are located in the front of the second floor, and the lodge banquet hall in above the club quarters.

The Two Lodges.

Phoenix lodge No. 101 is the oldest K. of P. organization in the city. It was instituted January 20, 1883. The membership steadily increased, and in 1884 the Fort Wayne lodge No. 116 was organized. At present the two lodges have a membership of more than six hundred.

The present officers of Phoenix lodge are as follows: Chancellor commander, W. E. Metcalf; vice-chancellor, Dr. C. Rothschild; keeper of records and seal, William Ward, jr.; master of finances, C. J. Lose; prelate, E. W. Kellison; master of work, W. E. Switzer; master at arms, A. A. Ransom; host, E. A. Sivits; inner guard, Dr. E. M. VanBuskirk; outer guard, O. VanHorn; organist, Charles Evarts; trustees, J. E. Wilson, C. E. Thomas and L. S. C. Schroeder.

Officers of Fort Wayne lodge No. 116 are as follows: Chancellor commander, Waldron Brunner; vice-chancellor, William Black; prelate, G. Arnold; master at arms, H. H. Bishop; master of work, L. M. Bane; keeper of records and seals, Calvin Rieman; master of finances, F. J. Wenzler; master of the exchequer, F. Shreeve; host, L. B. Lindsey; inner guard, A. Stenger; outer guard, Edward Dalman; trustees, C. Kronmiller, O. B. Kelsey and Luther Keil.

The Committees.

The committees in charge of the dedication are as follows:

Board of control—M. W. Kemp, Sol Katzenberg, L. M. Bane, L. S. C. Schroeder, Calvin Rieman and O. C. Obenchain.

Dedicatory committee—M. W. Kemp, J. C. Wenzler, C. J. Lose, G. P. Essig, W. E. Metcalf and E. E. Fox.

The uniform rank members of the Summit City company No. 12 were selected to act as the reception committee.

Evening Program.

The evening program will be for members only, and will open with a reception at 7 o'clock. The formal dedication will take place at 7:30 and will be followed by an exhibition drill by the Sampson Guards of Butler. The rank of knight will then be conferred upon a large class of candidates by a joint drill team.

BASEBALL ATHLETICS

HEILBRONER MAY BE A CANDIDATE

Will Ask for Presidency of Central League If Carson Retires.

IS COMPETENT TO FILL

Louis Heilbroner, syndicate scout, former secretary of the St. Louis National league team, manager for a time of the Grand Rapids club when it was first admitted to the Central league and a man most thoroughly posted in major and minor league baseball matters, will be a candidate for the presidency if Dr. Frank R. Carson adheres to his announced determination to retire from the office.

As a matter of fact Mr. Heilbroner is a candidate for the office with the stipulation that he will not make a fight for the place and his reasons for that stand are most excellent. He says that if he should enter into a contest for the place and get the office by a bare majority he would be known as a factional president and this would be a serious handicap to him.

He wants the place with the unanimous consent of the directors so that he will be untrammeled in handling the affairs of the organization and not open to the charge of favoritism. This is his platform given out today when he announced his position and said that he would stand for election.

There is no question of the ability of Mr. Heilbroner. In a few years he has built up a most remarkable and lucrative business in a field entirely new in baseball and is the pioneer in a line of work that had been needed for a number of years by the major league team owners. His long and intimate connection with the game has given him an experience that has gained him a clear knowledge of the inside of baseball and has pointed out to him that the affairs of a minor league must be carried on on strictly business lines and he proposes, if elected, to inject into the Central league some of the ideas that have made his private undertaking successful.

In addition to this Mr Heilbroner knows every baseball magnate of high and low degree between the great lakes and the Gulf of Mexico and between the Atlantic and Pacific oceans.

"Some of my friends suggested to me that I make the race for the presidency of the Central league," said the candidate, "but I didn't think much of the position and as a matter of fact was under obligations to some of the big league clubs that I thought would prevent me from taking the office. I consulted the men I have been dealing with for several years and found they were willing for me to take the place and I decided to try for it.

"Understand, from the start I am not out for a fight and unless I am the unanimous choice of the directors I will not take the office. I hope to be able to fill the position acceptably if I get it. It's a hard job under the best conditions and I don't want to make it any harder than it will naturally be."

The election of officers will not occur until January of next year unless Dr. Carson decides to retire at the meeting to be held here in a short time. If he makes way for his successor at the Fort Wayne session and a reorganization is affected then the election will be had in Fort Wayne.

This is one of the possibilities because the directors are opposed to a twelve-club league next year and some territorial adjustments will have to be made. In order to bring these about it will be necessary for the officers to submit plans to the National association meeting in November and this may induce the owners to map out their plans at the fall meeting here.

Mr. Heilbroner is a Fort Wayne product and has never had any office in a minor or a major league. He has never been a candidate and has preferred to remain a free lance, but once in the field as a league pilot it is certain that he will mould his organization into the model of the minors and no better selection could be made.

ANDERSON STOLE AND LOST A JOB

Bases Were Full at Time and McAleer Parted With Player.

HELPED THE YANKEES

By CLARKE GRIFFITH,
Manager Washington Club.

I figured as a principal in one of the funniest stories ever told in baseball. Jimmy McAleer, then manager of the St. Louis Browns, and "Big John" Anderson, now retired, were the other two men in what was a tragedy as well as a comedy. The episode dates back to 1904, when I was managing the New York team of the American league.

When the St. Louis club arrived in New York for a series of four games, I decided to try to make a deal with McAleer for one of his outfielders. John Anderson, who could hit the ball as hard as any one, was the player I had my eyes on. I knew McAleer was very fond of Anderson's ability to hit, but I was also aware of the fact that on several other points Anderson did not stand so strongly with McAleer.

Prior to the start of the first game I made an attempt to put over the deal for Anderson. McAleer, realizing that I wanted the player badly, held out for all the best of the transaction. Anderson played great ball in the first three games against us, which only helped to make it all the harder for me to acquire his services. It seemed as if Anderson was lost to me, when a baseball classic, happening in the ninth inning of the final game, made him a New Yorker.

At the start of the first half of the ninth, New York had the Browns 5 to 4, and seemed to have the game cinched. All at once the Browns began to hit the ball, and before I could realize what had really happened the score stood 5 to 4, the bases filled and only one man out.

At this stage of the game, Anderson, who was on first, stole second—with the bases filled.

When the smoke had cleared away, two men had been retired and the game was ours, 5 to 4, when a moment before defeat was staring us in the face.

I looked over at the St. Louis bench and saw McAleer tearing his hair. "What do you say now, Jim?" I yelled.

"He is yours for nothing," replied McAleer.

That evening I got Anderson for the waiver price, simply because he made the bone of trying to steal second with the bases filled. Four days before I had offered three times that much in vain.

Anderson by his hitting almost won the pennant for me in 1905.

NOTES OF THE SHAMROCKS.

Coming next Sunday, when the Fort Wayne Shamrocks play the Antwerp Reds at League park, all games for the rest of the season will be called at 2:30.

After next Sunday's game, Chris Chambers will leave for Wheeling, where he will play football this fall.

Fred Long will play polo the coming winter, and will leave for New York the middle of next month.

Manager Mart Cleary voted against extending the Trolley league season. The season ends the last Sunday in September.

PERSISTS IN MOONSHINING.

Impossible to Break Up Illicit Whisky Making in South.

Chicago, Sept. 19.—"It is impossible to wipe out the 'moonshine whisky business' in the south," said B. H. Howard, of Louisville, Ky., secretary of the National Federation of Internal Revenue Storekeepers and Managers at the federation convention. Two thousand illicit distilleries were broken up by revenue officers in the south last year. This was twice as many as the number of registered distilleries in the same region, he said.

THROW TO PLATE SELDOM IN TIME

Players Persist in Trying It Instead of Throwing to Second Base.

TRIED AT DETROIT

There is one play in baseball that when tried fails on an average of nine times out of ten, and yet on the possible chance that the runner may be cut off at the plate it is attempted almost whenever the occasion offers, on the chance that it may be the one time it is successful. The play comes up with a man on second and a single is made to the outfield. Nearly always the outfielder takes a chance and heaves the ball home, with the result that the batter goes to second, whereas, if he were held at first it would take two safeties to send him home. It looks the better play to throw to second, but as has been said, the fielder is generally willing to take the chance.

In a recent Washington-Detroit game the play was tried seven times and was a dismal failure six. The one time though it succeeded it was the factor which probably saved the game for Washington. Bush, Cobb and Crawford singled in succession, two runs had been made and Moriarity was on second when Louden drove the ball to center for a slashing single. Milan got the ball and, making the throw to the plate, got Moriarity at the plate by four or five feet.

It was the one time in the game that the play was carried through and that one time more than counterbalanced all the other failures. It is the one chance for which players are always trying.

Taking that play as a general thing straight through the season, it is likely that it more than evens up in favor of the team at bat. There is not much chance to get the man at plate trying to score from second on a single, and the throw home always places the batter making the hit in a position to score on another hit, when if he had been held on first it would have taken two to send him over. It would appear good baseball to make the effort to get the runner at the plate only in the last couple of innings when it appears that the run will win for the side at bat.

MOORE WATCHED FROM THE STAND

Didn't Have Nerve to Report to Club After He Had Been Sold.

HE WENT HOME AGAIN

Guthrie, Okla., Sept. 19.—The first player to go upward from the recently defunct Oklahoma league is Catcher H. P. "Possum" Moore, who came to Guthrie late in May. Moore is a great big fellow, weighing close to 200 pounds, perhaps not yet of age, and has the making of a big league receiver. He has plenty of natural ability, and is a good sticker in addition, but he never played away from his home in Fort Smith until this season.

When the Oklahoma State league went under a few weeks ago, Moore was sold to Paris, Texas, of the South Central league, for $10. Within two weeks, however, a Kansas City scout had looked Moore over and paid Paris $750 for him. Moore was at once sent to Kansas City.

After several days elapsed and Moore did not make an appearance in Kansas City an investigation was started and he was found in Fort Smith. A representative of the Kansas City club was sent after him. It was learned that he did go to Kansas City from Paris, and actually attended two ball games between the Blues and opposing teams, sitting in the Grand stand. He got stage fright, however, and instead of reporting to Charlie Carr, the Blues' manager, he went home to Fort Smith. Moore said that in Kansas City he could find no person who knew Charlie Carr nor where the ball players were housed while at home.

The backwardness of Catcher Moore is like unto that credited to Outfielder Jackson of the Cleveland Americans, who, according to baseball history, was so overcome by the tall buildings in Philadelphia, when Connie Mack attempted to try him out, that he returned to his southern home. When Catcher Moore came to Guthrie he sat in the grand stand during two games before he reported, none of the fans knowing him.

MATTER IS IN DOUBT.

Dayton Does Not Know Whether Player Is Drafted or Not.

Dayton, O., Sept. 19.—Officials of the Dayton club are in the dark regarding the future of Catcher Frank Armstrong. This promising player was in the list submitted by President Murphy of the Chicago Cubs and he was allotted to the chubby boss of the Windy City team. However, there is no mention made of Armstrong in the lists announced by the National commission, and the indications are that Murphy withdrew the draft after getting the player, just as he did in the cases of Lejeune and others. There is a possibility, however, that Armstrong's name was omitted in error, and until the matter is decided the local owners will not know whether or not they still have claim to the services of the clever youngster.

Mike Donlin has again harkened to the call of Thespis. He will elevate the stage again this winter, having signed a contract to act as interlocutor for a minstrel show.

BOSTON HAS PENNANT.

OWNER IS PROUD OF HIS FIGURES

Fort Wayne Turned Out in Goodly Numbers for Its Ball Team.

LADIES WATCHED 'EM

"I am proud of what Fort Wayne did the past season," says Owner Claude H. Varnell of the local ball team in submitting his figures for the year. "According to the figures of Harry Adams, my bookkeeper, who has gone over everything carefully only Dayton and Youngstown turned out better to see Fort Wayne than Fort Wayne turned out to see them. We did a couple of hundred better than Erie and Youngstown had only a few more."

The total attendance at the Fort Wayne ball park for the season was 62,527. The figures include grand stand, bleachers, children in stand and bleachers, ladies and complimentaries, but does not include ladies admitted on ladies' days. The ladies admitted on Mondays and Fridays as the guests of the club numbered 4,515. To show that they watched the race in the Central the number of women we had with each visiting club is as follows:

Erie, 527; Youngstown, 672; Akron, 621; Terre Haute, 495; Wheeling, 460; Canton, 262; Dayton, 250; Zanesville, 237; South Bend, 225; Springfield, 187; Grand Rapids, 186.

Taking out the games that were not played and figuring on a schedule of 66 games at home the attendance was an average of nearly 1,000 people to each game. Dayton turned out 8,756 to see Fort Wayne play and Fort Wayne came back with 7,265 and drew better than any other club here on the season. Mr. Varnell takes occasion to compliment Dayton on the way it patronized the Fort Wayne club.

The biggest difference in attendance was South Bend and Terre Haute. South Bend played to 5,411 in Fort Wayne, not counting ladies' days, and Fort Wayne played to 1,165 in South Bend, a difference of 4,246 in our favor. Terre Haute played to 6,073 in Fort Wayne, outside of ladies' days, and Fort Wayne played to 1,834 in Terre Haute—a difference of 4,239 in Fort Wayne's favor. Ladies admitted free on ladies' days do not figure in above attendance.

MAGNOLIAS LAST ROAD GAME.

The Fort Wayne Magnolias will play the Columbia City Trolley leaguers at that place September 22. This will be the last road game that the locals will play on the road, on account of the city series between the Magnolias and Shamrocks, which begins the following Sunday.

Tony Rieg will do the twirling for Columbia City and will be opposed by either Cashdollar or Detrick.

Fink has gained quite a reputation for himself during the last few games, having secured an average of two hits in each game, besides covering a lot of ground.

The team will leave at 11 a. m. via Pennsylvania railroad.

I Cure Pelvic, Chronic and Nervous Diseases

CURES AT YOUR OWN PRICE—Every person who calls on me before October 1st will not only receive a careful and thorough examination FREE OF CHARGE, but absolutely no fee will be charged during that time other than you yourself are willing to pay.

SCIENTIFIC AND THOROUGH EXAMINATION—I have made it a point never to treat any case until I had made a careful and thorough examination and definitely located the cause of the trouble. This takes time, care and a complete and scientific knowledge of the parts affected, both in health and in disease. The human body is a most complicated piece of mechanism. In fact, so complicated that it is impossible for any one person to thoroughly understand its normal, or healthy condition. How much more impossible, then, would it be to understand all the diseased conditions that may arise?

Knowing, as I do, the absolute futility of attempting to successfully treat every disease I have limited my study to PELVIC, CHRONIC AND NERVOUS DISEASES, and my many years of experience in their treatment have enabled me to perfect methods which will positively and permanently restore to perfect health nearly all these conditions in which the ordinary methods have failed.

NERVOUS BREAKDOWN and nearly all nervous diseases are the direct result of CHRONIC or imperfectly treated PELVIC DISEASES. By my special methods in the treatment of these diseases I not only remove every trace of the disease itself, but am able to restore to a normal and healthy condition the broken-down and devitalized nervous system.

VARICOCELE, STRICTURE, RUPTURE, PILES, FISTULA, ETC., cured without knife and without detention from business.

BLOOD POISON—Only the most advanced methods are used by me in the treatment of Blood Poison and kindred diseases.

ECZEMA and other skin diseases are quickly and permanently cured.

PROSTATIC ENLARGEMENT—This may result from a number of causes. The constant jarring and vibration of trains and trolley cars are a very potent cause. Bicycle riding and the use of riding implements on the farm are factors in producing this disease. In fact, the causes are so common that fully 75 per cent. of all adults are afflicted to a greater or less extent by this disease. The disease is so little understood, and as one of the principal symptoms is a pain in the back, it is usually called kidney trouble, and treated with local applications or sedatives, which can do no possible good whatever. I reduce the enlargement and have been able to cure about 90 per cent. of all cases.

DON'T SCOLD AN IRRITABLE CHILD

See if tongue isn't coated, stomach sour and bowels waste clogged.

Mother! Don't scold your cross, peevish child! Look at the tongue! See if it is white, yellow and coated! If your child is listless, drooping, isn't sleeping well, is restless, doesn't eat heartily or is cross, irritable, out of sorts with everybody, stomach sour, feverish, breath bad; has stomach ache, diarrhoea, sore throat or is full of cold, it means the little one's stomach, liver and 30 feet of bowels are filled with poisons and foul, constipated waste matter and need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

Give a teaspoonful of Syrup of Figs, and in a few hours all the clogged up waste, undigested food and sour bile will gently move on and out of its little waste clogged bowels without nausea, griping or weakness, and you will surely have a well, happy and smiling child again shortly.

With Syrup of Figs you are not drugging your children, being composed entirely of luscious figs, senna and aromatics it cannot be harmful, besides they dearly love its delicious taste.

Mothers should always keep Syrup of Figs handy. It is the only stomach, liver and bowel cleanser and regulator needed—a little given today will save a sick child tomorrow.

Full directions for children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the package.

Ask your druggist for the full name, "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna," prepared by the California Fig Syrup Co. This is the delicious tasting, genuine old reliable. Refuse anything else offered.

SPEAKS OF EARLY HOME OF LINCOLN

Marshall Declares Great Emancipator Was at Heart Democrat.

ENDS WESTERN TOUR

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 19.—Here in the early home of Abraham Lincoln, Governor Thomas R. Marshall, of Indiana, democratic vice-presidential candidate, in a speech in the armory declared that the martyred president was a democrat at heart.

"In every heart throb Abraham Lincoln was a democrat, although he may never have voted the democratic ticket," said Governor Marshall.

"Lincoln was essentially a leader of his fellows," the governor said, "and he preached the doctrine of the brotherhood of man."

He said this government as now conducted was not a government founded on the doctrine of the brotherhood of man, but was a government for the benefit of the few. He then gave his views of government for the benefit of special interests.

Gov. Marshall's Address.

Governor Marshall charged that under high tariff the Japanese navy was able to buy steel at 50 per cent of the price charged the United States government. He said:

"The tariff schedules of this country, which have produced the trusts and monopolies, have been enacted by a species of log-rolling and the never-ending changes in these schedules are helping one man and harming another without right. This produces the real cause of the unrest in business conditions.

"The manufacturer is coming to realize that it is to his interest to have peace and certainty and to have his business divorced from the tinkering of government; that the sum of the benefit to one man has been equalled by the sum of injury to others; that the legislation has been local in its character.

"People have laughed over the article in a September magazine on an industry wherein a trust magnate procured a tariff duty of 32 cents on single bananas in order that Jimmie might build glass houses on the barren farms of New England and raise bananas.

"But the exaggeration was not so ridiculous after all. Very much the same thing has been done. An Indianian got under the Payne-Aldrich umbrella because he could not raise pineapples without assistance. Every fever-stricken child must pay more for a pineapple that this man may be enabled to raise them. The lemon growers of California obtained one-half cent per pound tariff on lemons and thereby closed the mills at Bangor, Me., which turned out the material for lemon boxes, as the Italian lemon grower retaliated on the box manufacturers. A boost for a big man under this system has always been a knock for the little fellow.

"Once inoculate man with the right of special privilege and it goes into every drop of his blood. He thinks he is perfectly justified in taking it wherever he can get it, and legislators think they are equally justified in giving it whenever it is asked. Take this example, if you please, of the virus that is in our system; under republican rule in the state of Maine the Bangor & Arostock railroad paid $100,000 a year taxes. By legislative authority $95,000 of this money was rebated to the railroad under condition that the railroad should haul the troops of Maine free of charge in the event of war with Canada. Under the democratic administration this graft stopped and the railroad was told that in the event of war regular rates would be paid for the transportation of troops.

"Special privilege will not treat its own people as decently as it treats others. The United States Steel corporation sold its armor plate at Portsmouth, England, for the Japanese navy at fifty per cent of the price it charged the United States government, and I don't blame it for doing so. A government that hands an industry a bludgeon with which to knock down its own citizens ought, itself, to be knocked down. This is one bit of easy money that I do not begrudge the United States Steel corporation.

"The control of the trusts by standpatter and progressive, as proposed by their platforms, is practically the same. From the text of their platforms no sermon can be preached which does not praise the protective system, which is responsible, in large part, for the high cost of living, for the levying of a tribute of $100 a year off of every man, woman and child in America for the benefit of the trust magnate, and for the destitution and hopelessness of the working man's condition.

"The real fight between the standpatter and the progressive is not at Armageddon—it is here and now; the real fight is to determine which shall be the scape-goat to carry the sins of the party into the wilderness of forgetfulness."

Two Beauty Hints Every Woman Show Know

Complexion blemishes rapidly vanish after a few applications of a simple spurmax lotion, made by dissolving 4 ounces spurmax in ½ pint witch hazel or hot water and adding 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine. This lotion is invisible when on, clears the skin of all eruptions or blemishes and gives to it a soft, velvety finish. It is fine for dispelling the oily, shiny condition and offers complete protection to the complexion during the trying weather of fall.

Cleansing the hair and scalp with canthrox is invigorating and adds greatly to the hairs beauty. A teaspoonful canthrox dissolved in a cup hot water is ample for shampooing the heaviest head of hair, and when used on dull, "stringy," faded hair makes it bright and fluffy and gives to it a rich, even color. No danger of catching cold follows the use of canthrox.

A "Tip" from the West Indies for Eczema Sufferers

These Spanish speaking islands have a marvelous remedy for Eczema, Tetter, Salt Rheum and other inflammatory conditions of the skin. This remedy is called "EXOINTO." Here is an example of its wonderful efficiency.

"I have pleasure in certifying that after suffering for over twenty years with eczema, which had become chronic type, and after using various kinds of lotions and ointments without obtaining relief, I was recommended to use "EXOINTO," and the result has been truly wonderful, in fact I can assert with all truth I am now entirely free from all this painful annoying ailment. It affords me much pleasure, and I can with all confidence recommend "EXOINTO" to persons suffering from eczema and other irritations of the skin." (Signed) EUG. HERNANDEZ.
St. Joseph, Trinidad. Nov. 15, 1911.

CHARLES CARSON.

FORMER SENATOR MONEY IS DEAD

Mississippi Man Once Minority Leader of the Upper House.

SKETCH OF CAREER

Biloxii, Miss., Sept. 19.—Former United States Senator Hernando DeSoto Money, of Mississippi, died at his home near here yesterday afternoon of uremic poisoning. He was 74 years old.

Mr. Money was formerly minority leader of the upper house. He was forced to quit the political field two years ago by his failing health. He had suffered for years with eye trouble and during the last year of his service in the senate he was unable to read. He served in the confederate army from the beginning of the war until Sept. 26, 1864, when he was forced to retire on account of his failing sight.

He was born Aug. 26, 1839, in Holmes county, Mississippi, and was educated at the University of Mississippi. Before he entered politics he was a lawyer and planter in his native state.

He was elected to the house of representatives in the forty-fourth, forty-fifth, forty-sixth, forty-seventh, forty-eighth, fifty-third and fifty-fourth congresses, and in January, 1896, was elected to the senate for the term beginning March 4, 1899.

He was appointed to the United States senate Oct. 8, 1897, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator J. Z. George and in January, 1898, was elected by the Mississippi legislature to fill out the unexpired term ending March 3, 1899. He was renominated by the democratic party in the primary of Aug. 3, 1903, to succeed himself for the term beginning March 4, 1905, and he served until March 3, 1911. He then retired because of failing health.

POLLUTED BY TYPHOID.

Disease is Traced to Oyster Beds by Government Experts.

Washington, Sept. 19.—Jamaica Bay, Long Island, and the Potomac river, seventy-five miles down from Washington, both are polluted by typhoid germs, according to the department of agriculture's declaration. Acting Secretary Hays issued a statement saying the department's investigation had traced typhoid to oyster beds and had begun a survey of the great oyster fields to determine how far the pollution extends. He suggested state policing of oyster beds and action by government authorities to insure purification of city sewage.

Col. D. N. Foster has gone to Lafayette and will remain there for several days attending to business affairs.

Rev. J. H. Kleekamp, of Canton, Ohio, has returned home after spending a few days with his brother, Attorney F. H. Kleekamp.

STOCKS AND BONDS.

The Day on Wall Street.

New York, Sept. 19.—The market showed some degree of strength at the opening, virtually all active issues recording slight gains. Canadian Pacific declined over a point and St. Paul also was weak.
All the better known stocks were in demand, with gains approaching a point in Reading, the Hill issues and Steel, while some of the specialties made greater gains.
Prices today moved upward with especial strength in Hill issues. Louisville & Nashville and Reading among the railways, while various specialties, including Can both common and preferred, Beet Sugar, National Biscuit and Westinghouse gained 1 to 2 points. Canadian Pacific showed some heaviness and the labor troubles of the Utah Copper company were reflected in a further decline in the stock. Call money was in keener demand, again opening at 5 per cent. Bonds were steady.
The market closed steady. More steadiness was shown by the general market in the final hour, although there were no essential changes aside from a further rise in Can preferred, which gained 5 points with half as much for the common.

DEFENDS COLD STORAGE.

State Chemist Barnard Delivers Address at Washington.

Washington, Sept. 19.—A defense of cold storage was made today before the American Public Health association in session here by Dr. H. E. Barnard, food commissioner of Indiana. Adequate legislation and development of the practice of labelling cold storage articles he declared, would do away with the idea that cold storage was an artifice used by the speculator to force higher prices and a practice which spoils instead of preserving foods. Practical laws should be enacted, he asserted, not having for their purpose the destruction of the business.

UNCLE SAM TAKES A HAND.

Investigates Threatening Letters to Virginia Brooks.

Chicago, Sept. 19.—United States postal authorities were brought into the anti-vice crusade of Miss Virginia Brooks, at West Hammond, Ill., today. Letters threatening violence to the "Joan D'Arc" of that village, unless she stopped her crusade, were turned over to federal agents.

"Letters don't frighten me," said Miss Brooks. "I'm going into this fight with more vigor now that I've been threatened."

Writers of the letters were expected to be arrested today.

DULUTH CARS RUNNING.

Public Again Riding as Strikers Mark Time.

Duluth, Minn., Sept. 19.—The street car strikers here were marking time today. Apparently the public has accepted a normal car service as an indication of an end of the strike, and the cars continue well filled. However, many union men and certain "walking clubs" formed during the heat of the controversy refuse to ride.

Two cars were stoned last night in the west end and a few ties placed on tracks in the east end. The stones did no damage and the ties were removed by the car crews.

Virginia Brooks Undisturbed by Anonymous Death Warning.

Chicago, Sept. 19.—Miss Virginia Brooks, the girl reformer, who led the crusade which resulted in the closing of the disorderly resorts in West Hammond, a suburb, last night received an anonymous letter threatening her with death unless she discontinued her activity. A similar letter has been received by Mayor Wozcznski, of West Hammond.

The letters read as follows:

"We have had enough of this. If you do not let up there's liable to be some trouble. You may get a bomb, dynamite or nitro-glycerine."

"I am not at all worried over this latest threat," said Miss Brooks, referring to the letter. "Ever since I entered upon this work of reform my mail has been filled with this kind of trash. I pay no attention to threats of any kind."

Progressive and Republican Orators Now Bombard Hoosier State.

INDIANA WARMING UP

Terre Haute, Ind., Sept. 19.—After three days of campaigning in Illinois, made weary by delayed trains, that kept Governor Johnson from one to three hours behind his schedule at almost every stop, rain which drove the crowds to shelter and greatly weakened his voice, the California executive came into Indiana last night to begin a tour that will last a part of two days.

Besides discussing the progressive platform and reviewing the causes that led up to the formation of the new party, the governor last night paid a high tribute to ex-Senator Albert J. Beveridge, progressive candidate for governor of Indiana. The governor termed the election of Mr. Beveridge the duty of the state not only to itself but also to the nation.

"In the many states that I have spoken since my departure from California I have devoted most of my efforts to the national issues embodied in our platform but here in Indiana my interest and sympathy are equally divided between the national issues and the campaign within your own state in behalf of Albert J. Beveridge," he said.

"Were my speeches within the borders of your state the only ones that I were to deliver in this campaign I would consider the journey from California well worth the effort to plead the cause of the candidate now running for governor on the progressive ticket in Indiana."

BEVERIDGE RAPS RALSTON.

Assails Democratic Nominee as "Taggart Candidate."

Gary, Ind., Sept. 19.—"Tom Taggart's candidate for governor" formed the target for shafts of stinging reproof shot by Albert J. Beveridge, progressive candidate for governor, last night at Gary before a crowd of the big steel town gathered in Assembly hall.

Samuel M. Ralston recently in a speech took occasion to assert that Mr. Beveridge at one time did not look upon big business in the same way that he now was alleged to view it. Mr. Beveridge challenged Mr. Ralston's statement sharply.

The candidate declared that his views as to the control of the great corporations had not changed in the least in fourteen years and said that any effort to make the people believe they had changed was a deceptive effort to prejudice the public mind, the charge having no basis whatsoever in fact.

WHAT COLONEL BELIEVES.

Watson Holds Up Another Commandment at South Bend.

South Bend, Ind., Sept. 19.—Ex-Governor Winfield Durbin, Col. James E. Watson and Charles A. Carlisle addressed a packed house here last night. It was the first republican burst of oratory of the local campaign.

Colonel Carlisle thanked the Thirteenth district republicans for tendering him nomination for congress and pledged his best efforts if elected. Durbin asserted that the issue of the day was not politics, but a plain business proposition. He extolled the virtues of the republican party and dwelt on the protective tariff and its encouragement of good business.

James E. Watson, although handicapped by weariness from talking, made an eloquent plea for support of the party at the polls and attacked the democratic tariff policies. He ended by giving a detailed account of the convention at Chicago and held up Roosevelt to ridicule and asserted that the colonel did not believe in the commandment, "Thou shalt not steal," but the one "Thou shalt hold no other God before me."

LONGWORTH "STANDS PAT."

Roosevelt's Son-in-Law Says He Will Support Taft Ticket.

Cincinnati, Sept. 19.—In a statement before the republican county central committee here today, Nicholas Longworth, congressman from the first Ohio district, and son-in-law of former President Theodore Roosevelt, made the following expression regarding his attitude in the coming election:

"If the question be asked as to my present position I reply that I am as I always have been, a republican, and I shall support, as I have always supported, the republican ticket.

"At the same time I want it understood that as a republican I am progressive.

"I believe that modern conditions demand progressive legislation and that the policies inaugurated in the administration of President Roosevelt must be carried out.

"I am for primaries and for extension of the primary laws to cover all offices, even up to the presidency."

SATURDAY

Opening Day of Pontiac Place Lots.

The formal opening of Pontiac place, one of the most desirable residence additions that has been made to the city in recent years, will occur at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, and, from the number of advance inquiries and offers to purchase, the rush for lots is expected to be on a small scale like that attending the western settlement scrimmages.

Except for cases, wherein the purchasers desired to build homes before the coming of winter, the company has steadfastly refused to sell, reserving practically all of the choice locations for the opening day. No matter what time a prospective buyer arrives at the addition Saturday he can take his stand on the lot he desires to own and remain there to the exclusion of anyone else who might fancy the location until the company's clerks come at 2 o'clock to close contracts.

Pontiac place, which consists of about ninety-five acres, was formerly the Concordia college farm, and was purchased four months ago by the Pontiac Place company.

After paying for the farm, the company immediately appropriated $50,000 for the improvement of the north forty acres of the tract, and three asphalt pavements were laid—on Pontiac boulevard, Euclid avenue and Central avenue—60,000 square feet of sidewalks were put down and a complete system of alley and main sewers is under construction.

Pontiac Place park, a strip seventy-two feet in width, between Pontiac boulevard and Pontiac street, was donated to the city soon after the deal for the land was closed and Superintendent Goers and a force of men started work yesterday, grading and planting trees and making all preparations for its beautification next spring.

W. A. Smith, Bridgeton, Ind., is telling his friends and neighbors of his return to health and strength by the use of Foley's Kidney Pills, and he says he wants others to benefit also. "I was so crippled with rheumatism I could not dress without help, and had kidney trouble for years. I started using Foley Kidney Pills and now all my trouble has left me and I do not feel that I ever had rheumatism. I rest well at night and though 59 years old, can now do the work of a man of 35 years. I would like to be the means of others getting benefit from Foley Kidney Pills.—Dreier Drug Co.

AMERICAN FARMERS HAVE BEEN "PROTECTED" OUT OF TENS OF MILLIONS OF DOLLARS IN FARM MACHINERY.

A Canadian Competitor Can Equip His Farm for $300 Less, With American-Made "Protected" Machinery. Here Are the Facts and Figures.

(By Byron W. Holt, Chairman of Tariff Reform Committee of Reform Club.)

There are in the United States about 6,000,000 farmers and nearly 4,000,000 more farm laborers.

Most of them are voters. Many of them have voted for high tariff walls at every election.

Why? For protection, they say.

Whom does it protect? The farmers? Let's see.

For his Gale triple gang plough, made by the Gale Manufacturing company, at Albion, Mich., the American farmer pays $22.50 (25 per cent.) more than the farmers abroad.

For his "Boy Blue" hand plough and his Gale steel beam plough, he also pays 25 per cent. more than is charged his Canadian competitor.

His Lean twenty-disk harrow, made by the Roderick Lean Manufacturing company at Manfield, Ohio, comes $7.31 higher than the same article costs for export.

His Gale drop planter, his Universal cultivator and seed drill and his Universal garden plough No. 216, made at South Farmington, Mass., and his New Century four-shovel cultivator, made by the Heath Farming and Manufacturing company, of Plymouth, Ohio, also each cost him one-fourth more than the export price.

The duty on all these implements is only 15 per cent., and the farmer has heard that the price of American manufactured products is increased by only a small part of the duty.

The Rapid grist mill No. 10, made in Plymouth, Ohio, costs him a third more than the price at which the manufacturers offer it for export.

He has to pay a fifth more than the export price for Stewart's hand horse clippers.

When the snow is on the ground and he wants to go hunting protection is still with him, and he pays $9.37, or one-fifth, more than the export price for a Remington repeating shotgun.

If the farmer wants to hunt bigger game he has the privilege of putting up $28.65, which is 22 per cent. more than the export price of $23.64 for a Remington "Peerless" rifle. For the Union rim-fire No. 22 cartridges, long rifle, he has to pay nearly a third more than the export price.

The farmer's wife has to pay for an Ames four-gallon cylinder churn, made in South Farmington, Mass., 37 per cent. more than the price at which the Ames Plow company sells this churn for export.

This is the "lure" protection offers the farmers. On seventeen purchases that would be necessary on a well-equipped farm the American has to pay a total of $106.66 more than the same articles can be bought for if they are for use anywhere outside of the United States.

The farmer has to have several scores of articles, machinery of different kinds and agricultural and garden implements, to make his business a success. The protectionist graft compels him to pay several hundred dollars extra in excess prices to get started in successful farming on even a small scale.

The average value per acre of all farms in the United States in 1910 was only $31.26. The farmer can calculate that he would rather have an extra ten acres of land than make a forced contribution of even $300 in excessive prices to protect manufacturers.

Agricultural implements to the value of nearly $60,000,000 were exported in 1911 to North America alone, a large part of these at prices from a quarter to a third cheaper than the price charged the American farmer.

GIRL STAGE DRIVER QUITS.

She Makes Remarkable Record in Twenty-Three Years' Service.

Stockbridge, Mass., Sept. 20.—Miss Florence S. Markham, who drives the stage and carries the United States mail between the village of Interlaken and Stockbridge for the government, has made a remarkable record in her occupation, which she has followed since 1889. In that time she has traveled nearly 100,000 miles. In the winter Miss Markham has been forced to shovel her way through snowdrifts and in the spring she has repaired damage done to roads by heavy rains in order to make her trip.

HURT BY EXPLODING BEANS.

Crash Comes When Farmer Tries to Stir His Dinner.

Meeker, Col., Sept. 20.—Fred Cochrane, a farmer, had the nerve to disturb a pot of boiling beans, and as a consequence was hurled through his kitchen door and badly hurt. When he scrambled back he saw that the stove had been torn to pieces, and the whole room bore marks of the beans' bad behavior. Cochrane had put the beans on to boil early in the afternoon, and after they had been cooking about two hours he concluded to hurry them along a bit. He had barely removed the cover and put the wooden spoon into the pot, when the explosion came.

OHIO GAINS 700 SALOONS.

Buckeye State Has Many More Bars Than It Had in 1911.

Columbus, Ohio, Sept. 20.—Ohio has nearly 700 more saloons than it had six months ago. This is shown by the report of Auditor of State Fullington on the July Dow tax collection covering the preceding six months. The number of saloons in business during that period was 8,643, as compared with 7,950 for the half year before. The return of counties to the wet column is responsible for the increased number of saloons.

OUTBURSTS OF EVERETT TRUE.
